these guys from Finland launch into the UK...

We work closely with founder, Mikko, to launch the brands to the UK market, securing so far Halfords instore and online & B&Q Tradepoint partnership for 2027.

The business owns brands including building renovation brand 'WTF', World's Toughest Fix, and QUICKLOADER, that sells a range of straps and bungees for bikes, wanting to replicate its success in Finland over here in the UK.

It was a pleasure to launch these guys from France into Dobbies

We worked closely with Thierry to launch the brand into the UK market, securing so far Dobbies Garden Centre in store summer 2025 with a full range going in again for 2026.

This long standing brand had found it challenging to gain access to the UK market and had not been successful on a few occasions.

We worked closely with Thierry and the team. We drew on their experience and importantly demonstrated the differences and strong attributes this European manufactured range had. We found a logistics solution that worked for everyone, and within a few months of approaching the retailer secured in store ranging.

We love seeing the product on the shelf!

What else do you need to know about us?

Are you a sales agency?

We are so much more! We open doors, and we keep them open. When we work with your business, we will become an extension of your senior team, supporting you as and when you need it. Having been both a supplier and retailer, we understand both sides, and we know how to engage retailers to get the best results.

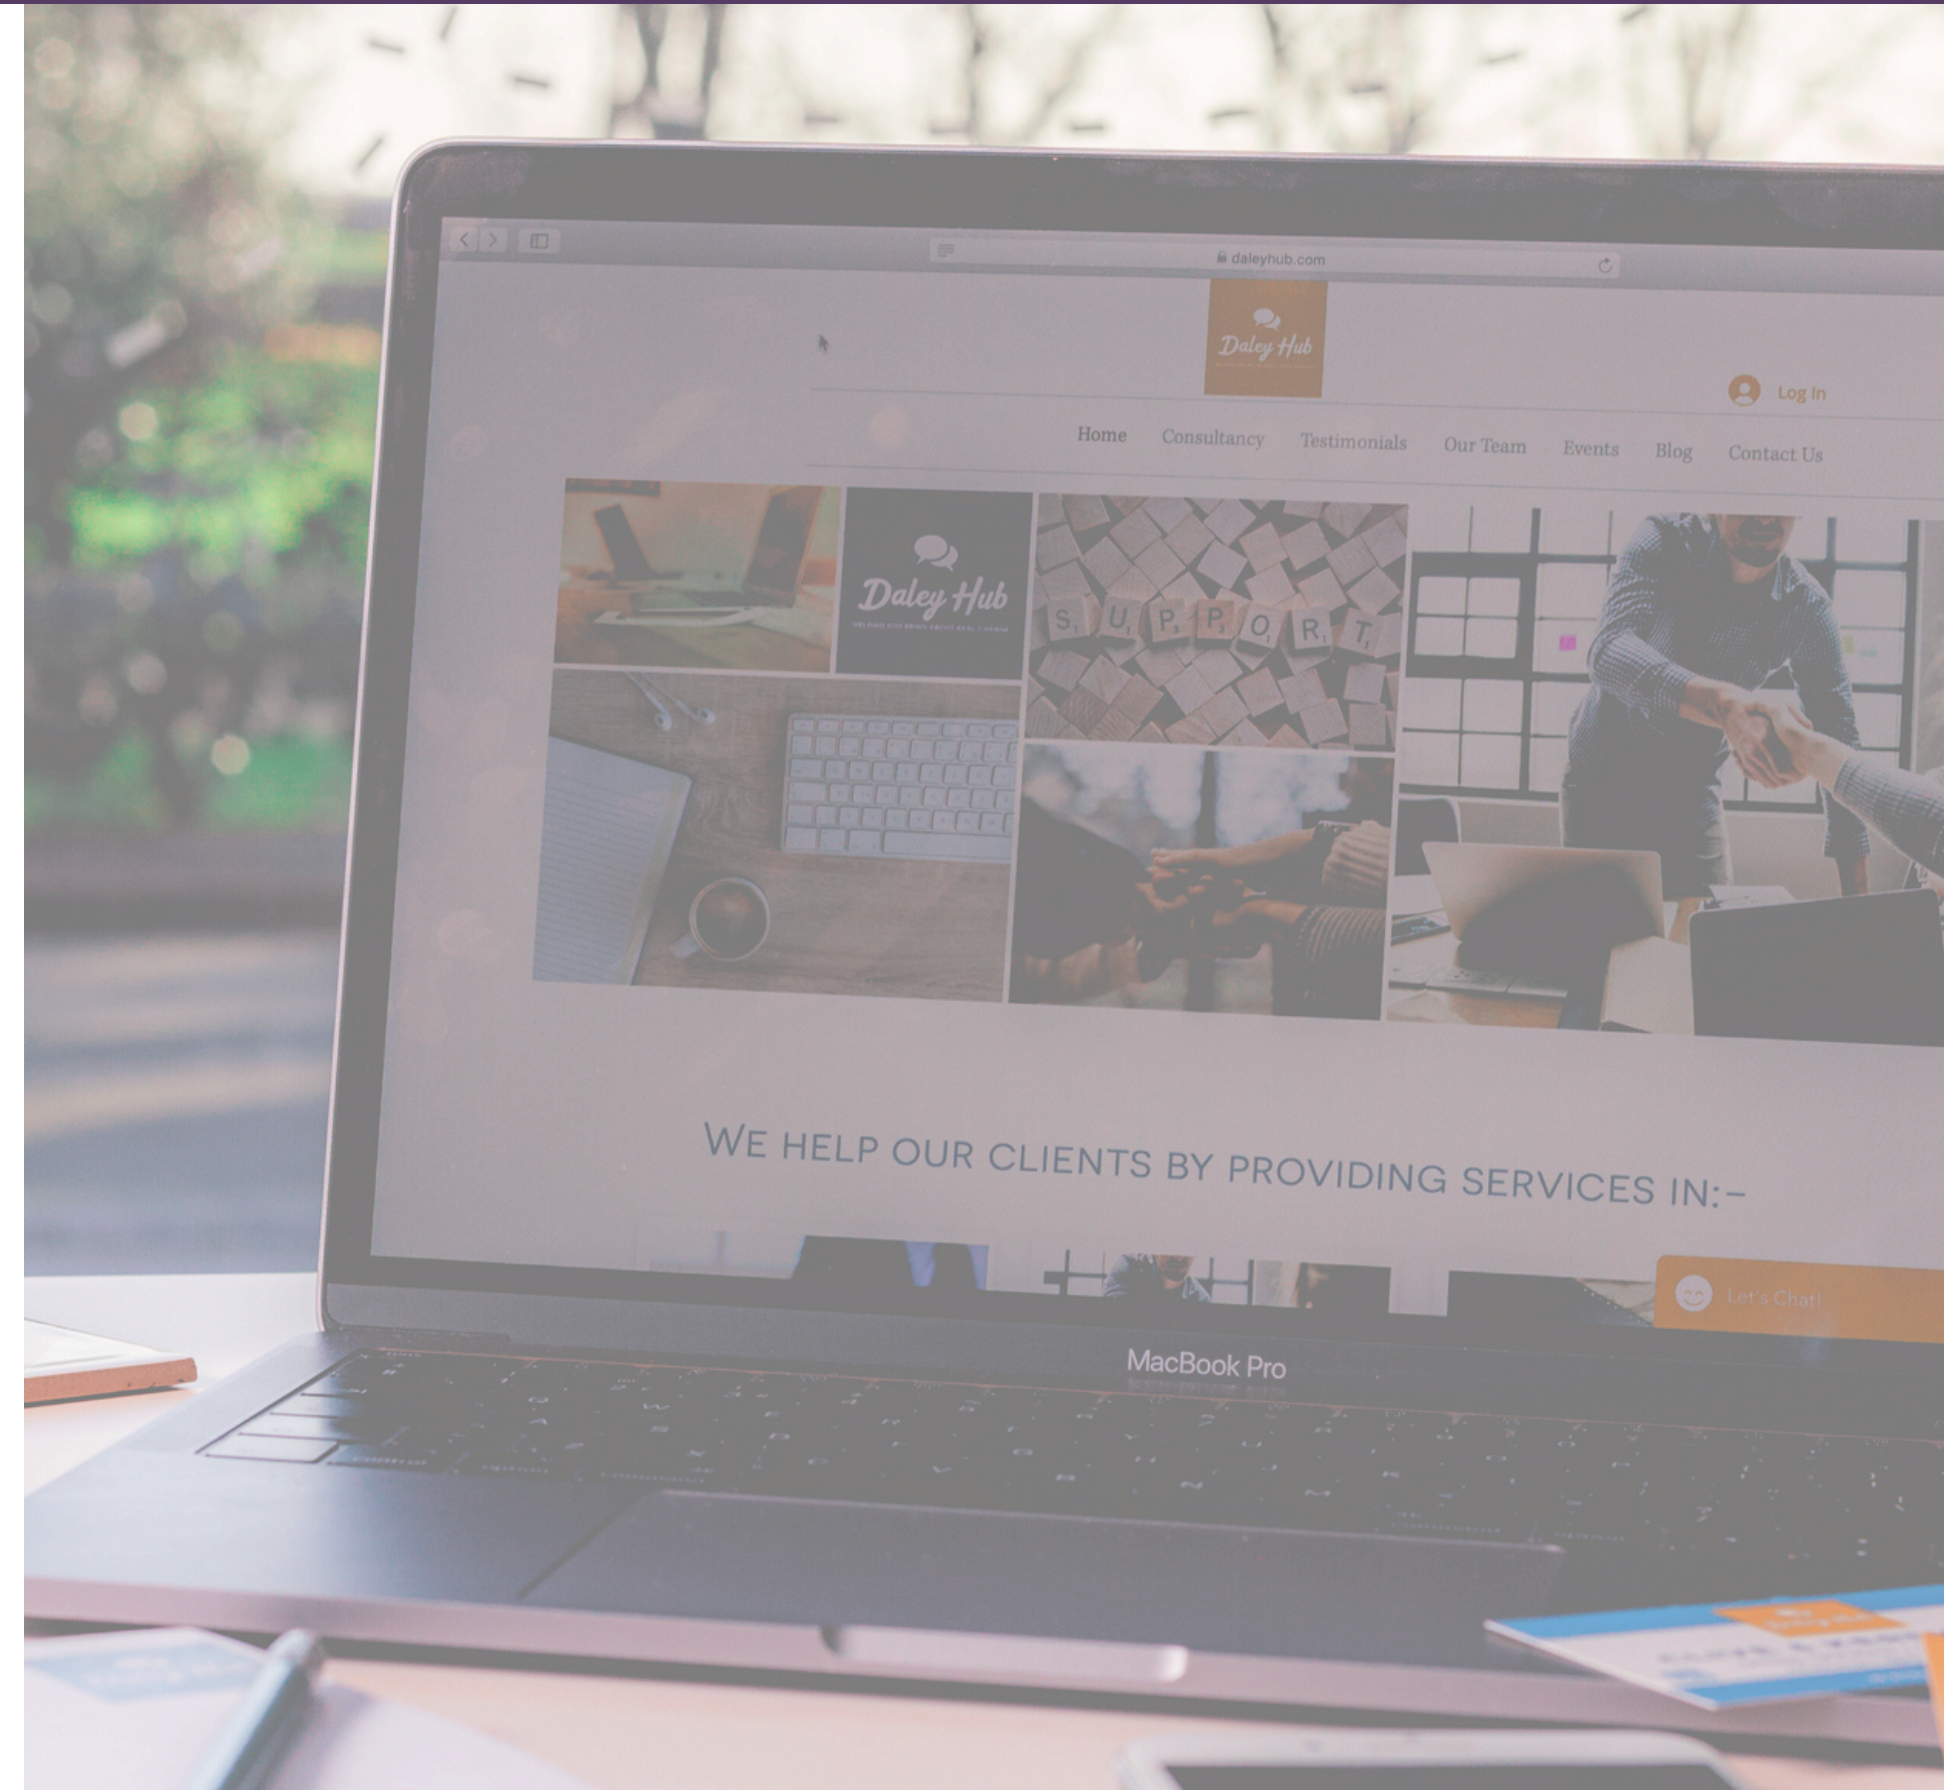

What's your strategy if the retailer says no?

We don't take 'no' as a final answer. We have those 'uncomfortable' conversations with retailers on your behalf, asking those difficult questions so we can find an alternative avenue to get the result you're looking for. We give them a reason to come back to you – it's a 'no' for now, not a 'never'.

How do you choose who to work with?

We know what makes retailers tick. We know exactly what they're looking for, so we always love to see a business with an interesting, inspiring and innovative story, but also those that have great company values.
